TRADE TRIP TO THE SOO

June 25 to 30 Dates Favored by Board's Committee.

Clean-Up Week will be May 1 to 6.

The Council of the Board of Trade approved of a tentative itinerary for this year's commercial tour submitted by H. J. Waddie, chairman of the Trade Excursion Committee at a meeting held Thursday. The trip will be arranged for June 25th to 30th, providing a reasonable rate of return from the railroad expenses. It is proposed to travel by rail to Sault Ste. Marie, visiting Parry Sound, Sudbury, Blind River, and Thessalon en route. Following a visit at the Sault the party will board one of the boats of the Northern Navigation Company and journey to Owen Sound by way of the Thirty Thousand Islands. The contingent's special train in the meantime will run from Sault Ste. Marie to Owen Sound and will pick up the party at this point. A visit to Sudbury and Orillia on the return trip is also proposed, making it to be the Board's most successful trade extension tour.

E. P. Coleman, Chairman of Civic Improvement Committee, reported that plans were well under way for promoting the Board's fifth annual Clean-Up Week, which will be held which will be held May 1 to 6 inclusive.

Mr. Coleman stated that the co-operation of city officials, Board of Works, business men, and other organizations necessary to the success of the movement had been secured and that the campaign will safe in predicting the usual valuable assistance from the press in directing the attention of the public to the importance of the work. He further indicated that lessons on the subject would be given to the children of the city in the public schools and that appropriate addresses and talks would be requested to offer some sound advice to children on the benefits of clean through physical as well as moral cleanliness. These manuscripts will be asked to use special slides during the week which will be presented to the public in the streets and leading merchants will give public talks on the subject in their daily newspaper advertising.

R. T. Kelley presented a budget of funds compiled by the Government showing that increased methods of caring for fowl would largely increase the supply of eggs in Canada and suggested that a farmer's bureau be established in each town. The Board whereby information of the nature could be supplied to farmers direct. C. M. Kelly, who presented the report to Mr. Kelly's committee on the recommendation of the Council.

BOARDER TOOK LIQUOR INTO THE HOUSE

This is the Latest Defense in Cases Before the Police Magistrate.

CLEAN-UP THE SLOGAN

Health Officers Had Two Cases in Police Court This Morning.

On Thursday afternoon P. C. Bell and Thompson paid a visit to the home of John Zyszenko, 36 Main street, avenue north, and after a search found more liquor than the law allows, and this morning Peter was called upon to face a charge in police court. After the two policemen had told of their discovery, the defendant's wife spoke most emphatically that the boarders bought the booze while she and Peter were away. The wife said that orders in the boarders were given strict instructions not to bring any liquor into the house. John Zyszenko, a boarder, swore that he had taken the liquor into the house despite warnings not to do so. The Magistrate reserved judgment until next Thursday morning.

William Webb, 36 Main street west, faced a charge of bringing an illegal quantity of a boy, and pleaded guilty. When the charge was read to Webb he refused to speak until the policemen had left the room, but when the Magistrate refused to comply, he announced his guilt, and elected to be tried by a jury. The evidence showed that there was a clear case against Webb, and he was remanded for sentence.

William S. Schaefer, a member of the American Legion at Toronto, pleaded guilty to two charges of forged checks for $10 on A. B. Miner, paymaster of the battalion. The Magistrate remanded him for sentence and in the meantime his past record will be looked up.

Ruth Elliott, a fair dame, not at all like the one who was arrested in the dock and pleaded guilty to stealing two silk blouses from S. E. Rose. She was remanded for one week.

Walter L. Lusk, 100 Main street, charged with theft, was remanded until Wednesday, as there was no interpreter in court.

Treothy Sullivan, who resides at the Market street, was charged by the Board of Health with failing to keep his abode in a healthy condition. Dr. Shatn and Dr. C. Karr, the physicians, investigated the "Timelux" palace, but this defied them. The Magistrate was inclined to believe the two officials were not sincere in their defense and will be looked up.

Silk for Afternoon

SHE refuses to be left behind in the fashion race, does Miss Sixteen, and there is no fear that Fashion will forget her, either. So many of the present modes are designed for youthful figures that the younger girl will have no trouble in getting stylish things suitable to her years.

Where sports styles might look like anachronisms on her mother, they are more than appropriate for the girl who has barely forgotten her tomboy days. A jersey silk slip-on style is pictured for her favorite sport. The blouse is of the striped silk in regulation sports green, the tie to match. The skirt is of a plain jersey weave of white, kilted to admit of unrestricted movement. There is a vest of the plain white run between rows of pearl buttons on the blouse. Her hat is felt underneath and white straw on top. Plain wash silks come in such pretty stripes that their use is very practical for sports clothes, a white crepe de chine skirt not being so unpractical, either, as it looks.

The street suit that every girl needs at every time of the year should not be conspicuous. Dark blue serge in a light-weight weave makes a suit with simple belted lines. The rever facing ornamental straps and crushed corduroy taffeta to match the blue of the suit. This is a many-buttoned affair, fastening with loops of the serge. A Salvation lassie-bonnet is dandified enough for any young girl. It makes use of the new color, chartreuse, in a velvet ribbon for the style note.

A one-piece dress for street or school wear should find a place in her wardrobe. Again the stand-by blue serge has been used and lightened with a dash of red in the sash tassels and bound buttonholes. This high-throated style might not be becoming to every girl; but where it can be worn it must be acknowledged it is stunning. Georgette crepe sleeves of blue make this dress less heavy for summer. Deep pleats run from the yoke to skin bottom and are gathered by a loosely-tied knot of the material.

Grey is becoming more and more popular for the young girl, especially when it is lightened with coral or blue. A gray ground with scattered buds of roses in a foulard weave forms the bands on gray Georgette crepe. The skirt is a full gathered model, its fullness confined to girdle depth by the three rows of velvet ribbon in the rose shade. The flowing sleeves are graceful and the handkerchief fuchia relieves the gray at the neck line.

Pastel shades for evening are the mode, without a doubt. Here the young girl is again in her element, for always the most delicate colorings suggest youth. The frock of coral taffeta has been skilfully combined with turquoise taffeta. The quaint quilling at the skirt bottom is also of the taffeta. Tiny rosebuds weight the tulle points. Fruits and flowers girdle the waist. A very new and not unbecoming note is the short shoulder cape of silver-threaded lace which stops abruptly in the front, but continues across the back.

Surely fashion is kind to the younger girl this season. Let her show her gratitude by being becomingly and stylishly dressed.

There is a little Bohemian cafe where many of us go when the days drag long, and over the marble-topped tables we exchange slightly-colored stories, our experiences being the everyday experiences. It is a strange little place, truly continental, and reminds one of the Latin Quarter of Paris. There we sit, and talk, and discuss the eternal verities of life; just such a safe lair is the tourist, whose motto is: "Atmosphere! Give me atmosphere!"

No discordant sounds of cabaret entertainments smite the ears, the quiet hum of traffic, but just the full voices above the clinking of glasses and china, when the waiters set before us on the cloths tables some delectable dish—prepared in style Parisian.

"Who is that old man with the long, angular hair and shabby clothes?" I asked. "He's a good old fellow, who stand straight before him with dull eyes and who stopped lastly with a tall glass of what might have been absinthe."

"He was reputed the greatest artist in the world," whispered one of my company. "He held his finger on the pulse of the European art world for many years."

"And now?" I interrupted, for he seemed to have nothing else, as if he ever lived in the past.

"Poor old fellow! He's of the school of yesterday," lamented my friend. "I am afraid he doesn't know of his success. Look! See that man standing in the doorway!"

The old man quitted the room, a tall, stately character, who looked like a tall, stalwart chieftain, a well-made, highly-groomed, active business man.

"Do you know who he is?" I questioned.

"He is a shoe clerk," came the laconic reply. "Comes here every Sunday, dressed in the height of fashion. Poor little dress, though. He serves for six days of the week, but on the seventh he really lives and like a king. That's why he is your millionaire and aristocrat!"

She pointed out a jolly-looking boy in a rough tweed suit with a cap pulled down over his eyes.

WHAT IS THE UNPARDONABLE SIN?

"No, Pat, I don't believe at this time I can give up the secrets of my little book. The experiences are still too new, the tragedies are still unabsorbed by time, and the joyousness without the perspective that memory will give."

"Some day, when life has resolved itself into the quiet waiting of the twilight hour, I may do it, but just see, my friend, although I am lying here apparently out of it all, I am still too young, too innocent, too inert, but my mind—my sense, my emotions, still tingle at the slightest contact with other minds, other emotions, still old Margie Waverty, with all the old longings for happiness, and I probably will go on stumbling in search of it until I can't find it no more, and then, perhaps, out of very reverences, Fate will fling it to me."

Pat would be in silence a minute, and then said, "Well, I suppose you write something else. I wish you would put some of those theories of yours into a story. I think it would be interesting."

"I don't know, Pat. I don't know. Perhaps when I began to write for the people to read I might begin to think of the reader, and that would be disastrous, you know."

"Would it be flattering an ugly woman because you knew she liked to hear it? However, Pat, I don't mind telling you that I am the mother of a girl friend of mine which I have written by and by, and if I do you may publish it, if you wish."

"Well, you begin right away?" asked Pat, smiling.

"I am going to wait until Mabel gets back. She says she has a plan to work on which she wants to help me, and I think she would help any woman to live a life of her own, if I will have to choose her, I would rather do it. I must work to stand upright, it almost seems to me that the unpardonable sin is lying to one's self."

"I have always believed that the greatest of sins is lying, and that is why the great spirit of all evil is called the Father of Lies. And I think that with only to little hook, that the unpardonable sin is lying to one's self."

Then Alice came into the room, and hurried over to Pat. "Alice," said she, "one of my dearest friends, Mr. Pat Sullivan."

EASTER

Ring out, O Bells of Easter!
Ring out, and let your mirth,
Your gladness chime, your chant sublime,
Resound throughout the earth!
Ring loud to the clouds of Heaven!

Ring out; and shout to the hills!
Sing the Risen Lord by all adored,
Till the world with the music thrills.

And thou, O sweet soprano,
Send forth your soul like a dove,
On the trembling wings of song, till it rings!

At the golden gates of Love!
Sing high, sing loud, till the silver cloud
Takes up the strain with might,
And the clouds above in the Land of Love
With the Choirs below unite!

And ye, O purest preachers,
Ye lions on the altar high,
Let your tongues of flame proclaim His Name!

Wise glories fill the sky!

Let your fragrance fine to Heaven ascend
In praise of Him who reigns
The bonds of the tomb, and rose on the gloom.

Like the sun in the firmament!

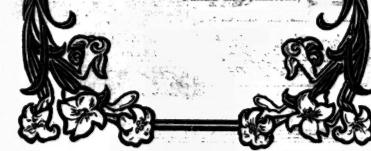

Ring out, O Bells of Easter!
Ring, swing in the belfry tall,
And to every heart your joy impart,

Bring Love into hut and hall!

Let your merry din expel all sin
And the resurrection tell...

All souls that lay like lifeless clay
In the tomb, and the gloom of hell.

London, April 21.—The recent attack of the Turks on the British forces along the Tigris, in Mesopotamia, was made by about 10,000 men, and cost them heavy losses. An official account of the battle, supplementing the earlier report from the British commander, was given out to-day as follows:

"The British command, reinforced to the 17th and 18th with some 10,000 men comprising one whole division and portions of two others. They came on in three columns, and after a fierce doublets will fight side by side with the French soldiers on French soil, and I will be proud to see the soldiers of both nations making up the contingent."

One of the senior officers of the British troops, representing the American Press correspondents in his tent at Camp Mirabeau, the officer expressed satisfaction over the overruling of the British command to attack the Turks to come from such a staff. "Pope and Johnson, we remember of another, an age of different ideals, still adhering to the principles of the revolution of the so-called Gothic revival: Gothic, Schiller, Victor Hugo, Emerson, what manner of company he would be in! At present, however, one thing is admiration of his wonderful genius."

On the morning of the battle, the general and the greater part of the army had awakened to an unusual intensity of life." They learned from him and his wife, Mrs. Pope, that the chief of French troops, General de Gressy, had been killed in the battle, and that his wife, Mrs. Gressy, had been captured by the Turks.

Archangel Closed to Ships, New York, April 21.—The Russian port of Archangel to all ship cargoes except those exclusively for the Government has been broken up by the British and American navies. In White Sea ports, and Arctic ports, it was made known to-day at the office of the Russian Commercial Attaché here.

One interpretation has been given to this as the reason for the decree. One interpretation advanced in marine circles is that the decree has to do with the movement of Russian troops to France.

ALLY AIR RAIDS.

French Flyers Bomb Germans About Saloniki.

London, April 21.—Three more raids by squadrons of French aeroplanes on British positions in the Greek border were started in a heavy descent from Saloniki. On Monday night, French aeroplanes bombarded the Gaster, Negropoli, Sarakina, and Podgorica, Montenegro. On Tuesday night other French machines dropped bombs on the barracks at Gherzeli. The German fortress at Novo Selo, the supply station of Strumica, and the camp of Padagazi were attacked on Thursday night.

The dispatch says many bombs proved to be effective.

A despatch from Athens to-day says:

"German fliers bombed a British camp near Novo Selo. We destroyed several casualties, according to advices received here to-day."

"Apparently the enemy supposed that our part of our troops were isolated by floods, and that they had a chance of overwhelming them. As a matter of fact, supports were moving up at the same time."

"Our total casualties, killed, wounded and missing, were very considerable less than 1,000."

"The 18th instant weather made aircraft reconnaissance very difficult.

The floods are spreading, and the river is rising rapidly."

"NO CHANGE AT THE KUT."

The Turkish official report says:

"The morning of the 17th the enemy advanced with a view to gain a position on the right wing, our positions near Felahie, on the left bank of the Tigris, one kilometer from the British posts, and against our main position. His attempt collapsed completely before our counter-attacks. Energetically pursued by our forces, he was obliged to abandon, with heavy losses, the advanced position which he had occupied the same day, and withdrew to the rear."

USE GERMAN RESERVISTS FOR A RAID ON CANADA

BIG Publishers Von der Goltz's Confession of His Schemes Against Us

Armed Motorboat Raids on Lake Towns, and Dynamiting of Vital Points.

London, April 21.—The Government last night issued a lengthy sworn statement by Horst von der Goltz, the secret agent of the German Government, who is now in the United States in custody, giving full details of his activities.

The Government's memorandum remarks: "Von der Goltz's statement finds detailed corroboration in the von Papen cheques, which he cannot have known were in the possession of the British authorities."

"The statement of von der Goltz as given out by the Government is in part as follows:

"On August 2, 1914, I met the Mexican army on leave and arrived at El Paso, where Consul Kluck directed me to report to von Papen. After visiting him I arrived in New York on August 5.

"I visited Vice-Consul Krasko, who suggested that I avoid being seen about the city, and I could also easily notify me when to meet von Papen. A few days later I met von Papen. I was asked my opinion of a scheme suggested by certain Germans for raiding Canadian towns on the coast of the Great Lakes with a motor boat armed with machine guns.

"The scheme, which was agreed upon by von Papen and Gen. E. E. later was abandoned on the advice of Bernstorff.

HOPED TO TERRIFY CANADA.

"Next, von Papen asked me to confer with two Ibrahim, who proposed the dynamiting of railway junctions, grain elevators and industrial plants in Canada connecting the Great Lakes. It was hoped that thus to terrify Canada, preventing the Dominion from aiding the Allies."

"I received the Ibrahim, who brought maps and details of the plan. Before going to Baltimore to confer with Consul Ladd, I made a study of the scheme. I employed one man, Charles Tucker, alias Tusehler, as an assistant. I then went to Baltimore, where I obtained a passport in the name of Taylor. He also introduced me to the captain of a German ship at that time in the harbor, and I made arrangements with part of his crew and one officer.

"Returning to New York, I selected three men to assist me and acquaint them with the details of the plan. Before going to Baltimore to confer with Consul Ladd, I made a study of the scheme. I received a cheque from von Papen, which was cashed for me by Mr. Stallard, a member of a German agency.

"Regarding the material, arms and dynamite, used, von Papen informed me that Captain Taucher, of Krups' agency, had agreed to furnish them.

"Having received privately from Captain Taucher, I went first to Calverton camp, I knew I should be asked at the object of our conference, so I wrote to my wife, Frank, and she gave me a telegram to Niagara Falls, N. Y., September 15.

"In view of the fact that I made a telegram to von Papen, signed a telegram to Captain Taucher, informing me that I made arrangements with him to get dynamite, I sailed the eighth of October for Italy. Since that time I have had no communication with von Papen."

"I took up just previous to the adjournment, when the general manager and the directors complained that the Curtis Aeroplane and Motors Co. were not paying the rate of wages which we had agreed upon in the construction of aeroplanes.

"Mr. A. B. Smith, secretary of the Curtis Co., and I started it at 25 cents per hour, but any man who made good and proved his efficiency was to receive 30 cents per hour after three weeks' trial. The commission adjourned until Wednesday next."

"JOE IS WATCHED

Von Papen now directed me to proceed to Germany. He said he would take care of my expenses. On my arrival, I paid off Capt. von Papen, who was managing his affairs, and I made arrangements with him to get dynamite, I sailed the eighth of October for Italy. Since that time I have had no communication with von Papen."

WORKMEN DENY FIRM'S STORY

Flat Contradiction of Allis-Chalmers President

Before Judge Snider's Muni-tions Enquiry.

Toronto, April 21.—The feature of the evidence given Thursday at the resumed enquiry at the City Hall into the conditions prevailing in munition factories in Toronto was the contradiction of the testimony given by Mr. Fredrik Nilsen, president of the Allis-Chalmers Co. at the previous hearing. The new evidence was given by former employees of the company, who declared that they had worked on munitions for ten, twelve and more hours a day at straight time. It was not until three weeks after the trial that pay rates were paid at the rate of time and a quarter for overtime.

Regarding the demand of the men for a nine-hour day, it was stated that since improved machinery had been installed, men had to work more hours than formerly to retain their jobs. A foreman of many years' experience asserted that the hours of continuous work, and in shops where the ten-hour day was in vogue, employers seldom get value for their money.

Aided by Judge Snider why they persistently worked overtime for straight time, the male said, was to keep the supply of munitions for Great Britain and America, and were willing to work as long as possible to help the soldiers equipped with machine guns.

Capt. (Major) Wallace or Mr. Devine, who planned to have some musicians who would like to join the 20th.

Leaving Meriden Britannia to Lead Sportsmen's Band

The employees of the Meriden Britannia Company had a jolly meeting at 12.30 p.m. the occasion being the presentation of a gold wrist watch to their fellow-employee, J. S. Devine, who has recently been appointed manager of the new plant.

The presentation was made by Robert Marshall, in a very neat speech, in which he referred to the hard work of the men, and the hard, rough side by side in the manufacture of any kind of goods.

Mr. Devine all sorts of good luck and success to his future efforts. Mr. Devine replied in a very happy manner, and the band played a march.

Afterwards, the band marched by making a strong bid for the services of any bandoneon who would be willing to enlist in the 20th, promising them the leadership of the best band in the service to-day.

Lacrosse Players Are Now Ready for Season-- Soldiers Given Option

Men in Khaki Given Every Consideration by O. A. L. A.—Important Changes Made in the Constitution Were Very Few.

Toronto, April 22.—In order that the men who are in khaki may not be hampered from playing lacrosse, it was proposed, at a number of meetings held recently, at the annual convention of the O. A. L. A., held yesterday, for the express benefit of the soldiers. The Lacrosse Association followed the lead of the O. H. A. and gave the soldiers who are in camp three choices. They may play with their home town, with the town in which they are located or a team representing the regiment or the regimental district in which they are training. In addition, a provision was made upon Mr. F. C. Waghorne's motion and reinstated all men in khaki who have been suspended for any offence less than professionalism. In this direction the lacrosse enthusiasts went farther than any of the other associations. Under their new rule men engaged in the manufacture of munitions are also automatically reinstated.

Appreciation was expressed by the members of the great army of representatives of lacrosse, who are now wearing the King's uniform. In making the motion Mr. Frank Neil, president of the association, said that of the thirty-two former presidents of the lacrosse association, all are still alive and the spirit of the game, which I trust, will always continue. While to-day I am severing active connection, my services will always be at the disposal of those who are endeavoring to promote the interests of our national game.

OUR BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

A motion of sympathy was passed to the family of Mr. James Vance of Ingersoll, who died recently. At the annual meeting, Mr. Vance was a past president of the association, and in making the motion Mr. Frank Neil referred to the striking fact that of the thirty-two former presidents of the lacrosse association, all are still alive and the spirit of the game, which makes the first break in the list.

The meeting reinstated Jock Burns, of Collingwood, and Donald Bethune, of Galt, who had been suspended and been suspended for two years. The case of Paul J. Thomas, of Campbellford came up for consideration. Thomas was suspended from the Prescot team two years ago, when they were suspended from the association. It was argued that he had played in a game of lacrosse on May 24th, 1912, and that he was accordingly a professional. An affidavit was produced from him yesterday stating that he had not been paid for two minutes in the last quarter with the Shamrocks he only received his stipend. He now wants to play lacrosse and desires to get back into lacrosse. The convention could not act in a case of professionalism, but the motion was referred to the executive to take up with the C.A.A.M.

The presentation of the medals for two years took place at the close of the meeting. The trophies were presented to them for the Young Toronto, and Scott Galbraith, the Brampton mascot, for the team. Smith, the club manager, approached the club, J. Westwood, who heads the polo for councillor, spoke for St. Catharines. Manager Johnston was present for the team. The silver medalists were Maitland, represented by Mr. Dundas, and St. Simons.

A SPLENDID REPORT.

One of the bright spots of the convention was the report presented by Mr. W. McArthur, the treasurer. When Mr. McArthur took the office of treasurer of the association his receipts for the year 1915 were $72,500, and all the expenditures including the deficit, came to $616.25, leaving a balance of $71,883.50. The members of the medalists were Maitland, represented by Mr. Dundas, and St. Simons.

THE NEW OFFICERS.

The result of the election of officers was as follows: President, Chas. Hocking; first vice-president, J. B. Brown; Fergus; second vice-president, Mr. Frank Neil; Secretary, James E. Dundas, Toronto; treasurer, W. McArthur, Toronto; Comptroller—J. Westwood, St. Catharines; Eugene G. Davis, Galt; Frank D. Davidge, T. P. Lancaster, Hamilton; A. G. Davis, Brampton; E. H. Johnson, London; Len Robinson, Collingwood; W. Ross, Toronto; Ed. Dillon, Peterborough; Dan A. Rose, Thoro, Henry and E. Hinds.

THE RULES.

Most of the suggested changes in the playing rules were adopted, the convention taking a conservative attitude for war time. The only two important changes in the rules were those made in favor of Mr. Eugene Davis. That arose from an ambiguity that led to a protest a year ago. A man belonging to one team was suspended for showing up for an exhibition game, and was later on protested. No player signed with one team can be signed with another team while an admission fee is charged unless he has had special permission to do so. A man who signed with one future to join an O. A. L. A. team after playing in some other association in the same season, without getting permission from the other association.

The suggestion that only members of active clubs in the association should be eligible for office was adopted. Mr. McArthur's suggestion that all protest charges must be marked at the time of the election was adopted.

REGARDING THIS GOALKEEPER R.
There was considerable discussion regarding the proposed changes in the active playing rules. Mr. Dopp and Mr. Frank Doyle, who had seen the convention who believed that the crease rule should be altered. The proposal which passed was to limit the use of the crease, which was framed for the protection of the goalkeeper. Under it a team loses a goal if the man in the crease does not have the ball in favor of the change suggested that a man should be allowed to carry the ball out of the crease, as long as he did not interfere with the goalkeeper. It was feared that the suggested change would result in a greater percentage of goals being scored by the attacking side.

Mr. Hinds expressed his appreciation of the services of the retiring secretary, Mr. Frank Doyle, who had done a good job. He had been in favor of the change suggested that a man should be allowed to carry the ball out of the crease, as long as he did not interfere with the goalkeeper. It was feared that the suggested change would result in a greater percentage of goals being scored by the attacking side.

THE SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Mr. Frank Doyle, the retiring secretary, made a short and fervent speech in the national interest. The convention of 1915 had been in point of numbers and enthusiasm the best ever. Though criticized for some of its actions, as must be the fate of all large organizations, the O. A. L. A. had done without doubt the greatest possible factor in fostering and encouraging the national game of the country.

Mr. Frank Doyle brought in a motion to shorten the time of the half time. Mr. Dopp voted three 20-minute periods. The argument in favor of the alteration was that 50 minutes of half time was too much. It was brought out that under the rules as they now stand, teams shorten the game where necessary by mutual agreement, as the old 20-minutes. You, and are now fighting at the root or in training for overseas service. From figures to hand it would look as though this association is well represented in the Canadian army. There are seven hundred brave lads who have volunteered to do their bit on the side of the Allies in the fight for freedom and justice. In retiring from my position to-day, I wish to express the sincere appreciation of the hoons done me by this association in electing me to office since organization was born. My term has seen this association grow and the popularity and interest in the grand old game revived throughout Ontario, and the game is now played in every town which I trust, will always continue. While to-day I am severing active connection, my services will always be at the disposal of those who are endeavoring to promote the interests of our national game.

ANOTHER SOCCER PLAYER FOR THE TIGER BATTALION

SERGT. GORMAN.

James Cecil Gorman, who was steward at the Wentworth Arms, resigned his position to become connected with the Two Hundred and Fifth Sportsmen's Battalion. He is an Englishman and is a thorough and practical canteen and chef, having a wide knowledge of cooking. He has been very fortunate in finding such men as Pte. Wilson, who served eight years as head chef at the Royal Hotel, and Pte. Wilson, baker and confectioner for the Royal Hotel. No better man could have been secured. Gorman has vast experience in connection with the catering for royal banquets in England and at the Parliament building. To Bealess being an experienced chef and steward, Sgt. Gorman has been a sport all his life. Seven years ago he was a member of the Toronto Lacrosse Club and was suspended and warned of an unbecoming conduct on the field, a record of which the association had a right to feel proud of in connection with the Juniors. The president's address outlined the story of the championships as follows: "Everything went so smoothly that we had no trouble with the battalions early, with the following results: The Young Torontos won the senior championship which enables them to the provincial shield and the right to compete on the branch of lacrosse they played. The intermediate champion ship was won again by Weston, entering them to the final. For the second year in succession, demonstrating that they were fit for selection, the Juniors' championship was won by the Bealess, who after three hard games with the Matildas, Cup. This entitles them to the provincial shield, which gives them the Maple Leaf Shield for a year. To these teams I extend my congratulations."

Sgt. Gorman has three sons going to school in England and his only regret is that they are too young to join the khaki.

LOCAL MARKET
RATHER SMALL

Easter Offerings Were Not Up to Expectations.

The Display of Flowers Was Large and Lovely.

Saturday, April 22.—The Easter market this morning was but a half-sized one. It was expected that there would be an unusually large market, but instead it was rather small, even for an ordinary Saturday. Produce of all sorts, though, was of a very fine quality. There were very few changes in prices. Blushard sold for 10 and 15 cents, and at 75 cents and 41.25 per dozen. Poultry was slightly dearer, there being an increase of two cents per bird. Eggs were 10 cents per dozen chickens. There was a very fine display of Easter lilies and other spring flowers, all of which met with a ready sale.

NEW YORK STOCKS

(By Times Special Wire.)

New York, April 22.—Wall street, 1830 Broadway, was quiet yesterday morning. The market was attended by further selling, but the general impression was that the market was displaying marked weakness. Indications of what may be done next week were somewhat uncertain.

London Bros.—Political conditions are the chief bear influence in wheat. Much will depend on the next few weeks' progress of the growing out.

Bartlett Frazer.—The northwestern situation must be watched, for any serious trouble, coupled with the winter weather, would easily result in a bullish wheat situation.

STOCK OPTIONS.

Toronto & Lethbridge.—Good news would undoubtedly bring a sharp rally but in our opinion the edge is off the bull market.

W. L. Leland.—Would leave war order stocks alone for the present, buying copper and steels and sending railroads.

NATIVE TRAIN ROBBERS.

(By Times Special Wire.) Rawlins, Wyo., April 22.—A sheriff's posse of two dozen men, mounted on fast horses, early yesterday morning, captured the bandit who had been holding up traffic on the Union Pacific line between Cheyenne and Rawlins, Wyo.

The bandit compelled the guard to pass his hat before the passengers, who had been held up for about two hours.

About $200 was gathered in the observation car. In the sleeper, the brakeman was pressed into service and another $200 was dropped into the hat.

When the collection was finished, the bandit ordered the guard a watch.

"There's a watch," said the guard, "and I'll hold it up again." The bandit then took the watch and left.

"The hearing of even the best endowed of us is not nearly so good as was that of our forefathers. The constant use of the telephone, the blare of the motor horn, the thousand and one noises of civilization have brought about a degeneration of the amazingly delicate mechanism of the ear."

Experiments on Rabbits Shut Up in Iron Kettles and Guinea Pigs' Ears Battered by the Pound- ing on Tin Boilers Reveal Damage Done by the Noises of Life in Our Great Cities

RECENT scientific experiments have made certain the distressing fact that the men and women of the present day who live in the great modern cities are steadily losing their acuteness of hearing.

It cannot precisely be said that a man must hear to live. It is certainly true, however, that deafness is a dreadful handicap in the battle of life—hard enough as that battle is in general for those of us who have no physical or mental impairment.

We are all very sympathetic with the maimed, the halt and the blind; but we have comparatively little sympathy for the many thousands among us who are becoming deaf—and this so insidiously, so gradually, that they have reached the stage where relief is possible, but full restoration of this precious sense absolutely impossible.

The reason for this lies in the fact that the sense of hearing is easily destroyed, but is slow to return. The most serious and painful case of all, however, when mental activity becomes diminished by reason that they come to hate the voices of their fellow men less and less until they cannot bear the comforting human voice at all. Hence the progress of war, in business, in international trade and in human affairs generally, so that they be once again with us, and our earning capacity reduced in proportion to the extent of their affliction.

To see, up in the twentieth century struggle for existence, one has to be active and in full possession of his wits, to keep the strain on the nervous system is constant, especially on the organs of smell, touch, taste and hearing.

The overstrained eyes act to follow a single blank cartridge shot close to the ear. Corti's organ and the auditory nerve filaments were thus severely injured at one stroke. Conditions resembling those in boiler making were realized by automatic hammering on the outside of the iron tube, while a similar fit inside.

Siebermann found, and here is a very practical point, that in order to ward off harm from long-continued loud noises the air waves can be kept from striking upon the mechanism of the internal ear.

The experimented animals whose ears were plugged with oil-coated cotton or other foreign bodies did not suffer injury of the internal ear from long-continued exposure to such loud noises.

There is also thus caused an atrophy, a wasting away of the auditory nerve, the office of which is to transmit to the brain the impressions of the world outside us. Once the sensitive and labyrinthine tissues are destroyed, once their adjustment to one another is lost, there is no hope for recovery; it is not possible, as in other machinery, to take out the broken down material and put in new.

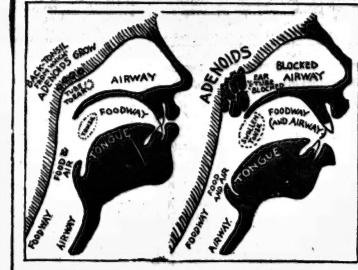

Such facts as these were actually demonstrated by Dr. Siebermann, who, with his colleagues, together a number of perfect ears of healthy rabbits, placed those ears in kettles containing water, and after different periods of time, when he had extensive destruction of the cells composing the tissues experimentally demonstrated.

Dr. Siebermann found especially that "the Organ of Corti," and the terminal ramifications of the auditory nerve, the labyrinth of the internal ear, suffered most in these experiments. Corti's organ is an extremely delicate structure, in which are some 3,000 pairs of microscopic pillars, the rods of Corti bearing on them small cilia, which end in hair-like processes.

In close relation with these rods are the spiral ganglion, the filament of the auditory nerve, to which the strands of a spider's web are about as the hairs of an arm are to the coarsest cobweb, with, the strand of a spider's web.

The organ of Corti is remarkable, not only because of its delicate structure, but also because of the way in which it is connected to the brain. The observer finds himself likening the rods of Corti to the piano keys, and the nerve fibers to the auditory wires to the piano wires.

When we bear in mind that all hearing is by means of sound conducted to the brain entirely by the auditory nerve, we can readily understand why the loss of hearing faculty is the disruption of these most gossamer-like structures. Dr. Siebermann, in his experiments on guinea pigs, found the most serious destruction passes from the throat to the middle ear. Catarrhs in this tube, fresh or chronic, collect on after another, and thus ever-increasingly thicken the tube so that it becomes closed up. The result is increased tension in the ear drum, often to the bursting point. For good hearing the Eustachian tube must be open, in order that equilibrium may be maintained between the air within the drum and the air outside the drum, in the external ear. Besides, the open tube renders sounds clearer, just as these shaped openings in violins do. Adenoids and enlarged tonsils, obstructions in the nose and throat, catarrhs, have the effect gradually closing up the Eustachian tube.

Worse still, the many germs of disease, which are carried by the germs of grippe, pneumonia, tuberculosis, quinsy, mumps, scarlet fever, meningitis, and many other diseases, affect the tube, causing it to travel along the Eustachian tube to the middle ear, all of which tends to aggravate the disease. The ear drum is affected by the disease, and the tube is closed off in that middle ear, the middle ear becoming so far advanced that the membranes of the nose and throat, and the trachea, lie in that by the people unable to get these nose and throat troubles to go away, and eventually become so far advanced that the parts of the hair underneat the skin turned gray like the rest.

The detonation was such that the hair immediately became deaf. The flanking of the powder produced a perfect burn, and there were several bruises on the head, which were greatest on the right side.

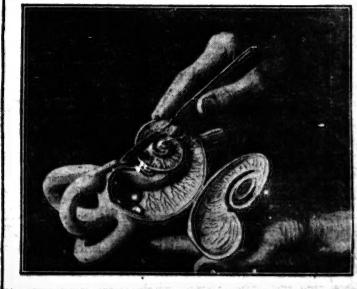

He was taken to the English Hospital at Arco-Barro, where on the following day he noticed, to his surprise, tufts of white hair on the left side of the head. These formed four "teats," separated from each other by a narrow space. The loss of color was complete from the roots to the ends of the hairs, and the longest hairs were about half an inch long. There was not a brown hair among them. The gray hairs were solidly imbedded in the skin, and could not be pulled out by strong force. The rest of the hair of the head was dark brown, and there was not a white hair in the hair.

The patient was an intelligent man, and the truth of his story was established by the fact that his hair was destroyed in the direction of his chest.

Now how the hair can lose its color so suddenly is not clear.

It might be suggested that in this case it was due to bleeding by the powder, but this was negative.

But this was negatived by the fact that the parts of the hair underneath the skin turned gray like the rest.

our human race, as it exists in civilization, had been accustomed, as the savage is, to living out-doors in all weathers; but in children sleeping exposed to the raw winds of winter, and in adults during waking hours in generally over-heated rooms, favorable conditions develop for future ear troubles. Such children are like to suffer in time from obstructive adenoids and enlarged tonsils, which are bound in turn to affect the ear and the hearing.

Another cause of congestion leading to deafness is the inordinate use of tobacco—not only from the absorption of the tobacco toxins, but also by reason of the irritation the smoke occasions. Alcohol also should be cut out, if of course hard to perceive the reasons for giving up the habits of smoking, but the facts should be explained fully to him, and then the problem is up to him.

The deaf should be encouraged to go among their fellow men and to use their gifts as well as they can. The secret of their success is to hibernate, to "go to themselves alone"; they get to imagine themselves a nuisance to their families and their friends.

Just How Hair Turns White in a Night

THE sudden turning gray of hair under the influence of great emotion is a phenomenon so remarkable that it has always aroused curiosity. The well-known historical instance, such as the case of Marie Antoinette, who is said to have become gray in the night before her execution, is open to some doubt, but several well-authenticated cases have been noted by medical doctors. At a recent meeting of a Parisian medical society doctor, Lebar reported the case of a soldier, aged twenty-three years, who was in a trench in Argentina, who was blown up by a mine. He was protected by a mass of earth and fell, covered by a mass of earth, from which he had difficulty in extricating himself.

The detonation was such that the hair immediately became deaf. The flanking of the powder produced a perfect burn, and there were several bruises on the head, which were greatest on the right side.

He was taken to the English Hospital at Arco-Barro, where on the following day he noticed, to his surprise, tufts of white hair on the left side of the head. These formed four "teats," separated from each other by a narrow space.

The loss of color was complete from the roots to the ends of the hairs, and the longest hairs were about half an inch long. There was not a brown hair among them.

The patient was an intelligent man, and the truth of his story was established by the fact that his hair was destroyed in the direction of his chest.

Now how the hair can lose its color so suddenly is not clear. It might be suggested that in this case it was due to bleeding by the powder, but this was negative.

But this was negatived by the fact that the parts of the hair underneath the skin turned gray like the rest.

The rapid mobilization of the hair cells in the growth of the hair seems to be provoked by nervous disturbance. The place of whitening seems to be determined by the points on the scalp which bear the seat of injury.

The studies of Professor Michelhof on the whitening of the hair due to age throw light on the question, says a writer in the Lancet. According to him, when a hair becomes white, it is not only the hair itself that is white, but the hair follicle, which is round or oval cells with prolongations which gradually come into relation with the cells containing pigment, and which are called "pigmentophores," he calls them, which then descend toward the root of the hair, and give to the skin of which they are, according to him, the pigmentary cells.

The pigmentophores, which originate in the marrow of the hair, disappear completely when the hair finally loses its color. This theory applies to the hair of old age, and also applies to the rapid loss of hair seen in French soldiers.

The rapid mobilization of the hair cells in the growth of the hair seems to be provoked by nervous disturbance. The place of whitening seems to be determined by the points on the scalp which bear the seat of injury.

Watches

On the subject of watches we desire to speak plainly and frankly for the reason that few people who buy watches know much about them.

In the majority of cases they sell a limit of expenditure with out definite knowledge of watch values.

If you are considering the purchase of a watch, our advice is that you buy the best you can afford.

There is no economy in buying a cheap watch—it means continued trouble and annoyance, whereas a watch well-made will give you years of service and satisfaction.

We will gladly give you the benefit of our expert knowledge in this regard. We have more to do at Klein & Blomberg's than elsewhere in the city. We are here to help you in the satisfaction of knowing that back of every watch you buy the name represents the highest standard of craftsmanship. We offer the maximum value for the money expended.

When we sell you a watch it is to us a small transaction for us to see to it that its performance is up to the standard which we ourselves made for it. This not only insures the quality of the watch, but also that we give the purchaser the best of our service, for the sake of which we charge a small premium.

Under such conditions you buy a watch. We have watches at every price, from $10 to $1,000, which can be sold, and add nothing to the price you pay to secure the advantages we offer.
